

Heritage Dungeon Dwellers Miniatures

www.DnDLead.com

Dungeon Dwellers are relatively easy to indentify as they are stamped with an HM, a date of 1980-82 and a 4-digit number beginning with 12. The number was usually, but not always, followed with a letter: A, B, C, D to differentiate different sculpts of the same monster type. Almost all miniatures had a date stamp of 1980, though a few had 1981 and a couple 1982. Most miniatures came in blisters, though boxed sets were available but contained for the most part miniatures that were available in blisters. The Lair of the Dragon boxed set was an exception which contained a baby dragon, treasure pile, maiden and dragon-slayer that were not available in blisters, nor did these figures have a 1200 series number, but rather an odd 5 digit number beginning with 35. Additionally, 3 miniatures from the Paint 'n' Play sets also had different number designations. An important point on the number system for the Dungeon Dwellers line is that the Dungeon Dwellers were officially the 1200 line with all the blisters having 1200 numbers. However, not all the miniatures in the blisters had 1200 numbers, but 1300 numbers as well as they used few miniatures from their Knights and Magic line in their Dungeon Dweller line. So a 1300 numbered Heritage figure may be a Dungeon Dweller, though in most cases it is not, the only way to know is to check the picture. Heritage also made a few variations in the models with the same serial number. Miniatures are listed in serial order of the blister pack number in which they were found along with the name of the blister.
